

Financial Literacy Workshop Being Held at SWOSU-Sayre

04.10.2009

The SWOSU-Sayre campus is hosting a free financial literacy workshop "Ultimate Money Skills" on Wednesday, April 22, on the Sayre campus.

Ron Kistler said the energetic, interactive presentation focuses on choices that students make about money during college, which can have an impact on their future financial success. The program also helps students make better decisions during and after their time in college.

The workshop will be held at 9 a.m. in Alexander Building Room 132.

The Ultimate Money Skills program will cover topics such as:

- The appropriate use of credit
- Protecting yourself from identity theft
- Taking control of student loan debt
- Investing for your future
